Asia Session Range and Anticipation that Liquidity to be Swept

Created	@August 20, 2021 12:27 AM
Tags

Im just going to go through GU, and go through some little tips, on liquidity and the asian session.

Now 1h, we know that we are looking at this bos, and this area here, now I have marked on this candle here, which shows the sort of consolidation range, before price bos, and we can see price didn´t come back in, but then what we have done was pulled back and then bos again.

So what we was looking at was on the 15m, we can see that area there and again we have a wick, which is an OB on 15m.

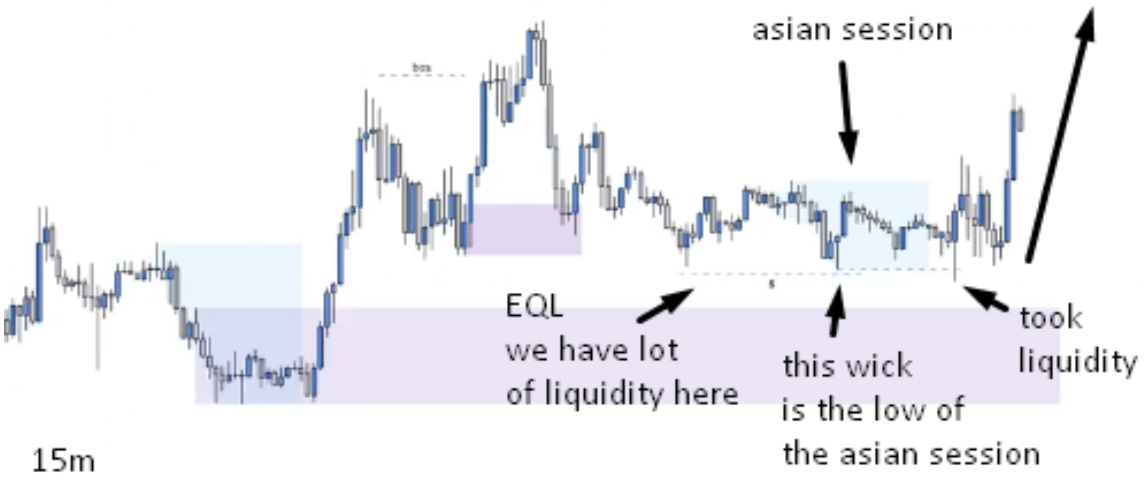

So we can see that bos and the last down candle refined to that candle. Simple stuff, we all know this we tapped in, and once we tapped in we go on the 1m.

We had a very clean entry, so we came in with this LLs and LHs, we then pulled up, bos, so we have this last down candle, which I would use as my entry, but then as I said I cancelled my order.

So I set my entry on the bos, but then it got to 6pm, even 7pm, so we have spreads coming up, so I took the order off, but this is a very clean entry, but then what happened was we came down lower after spread, so this is 8pm.

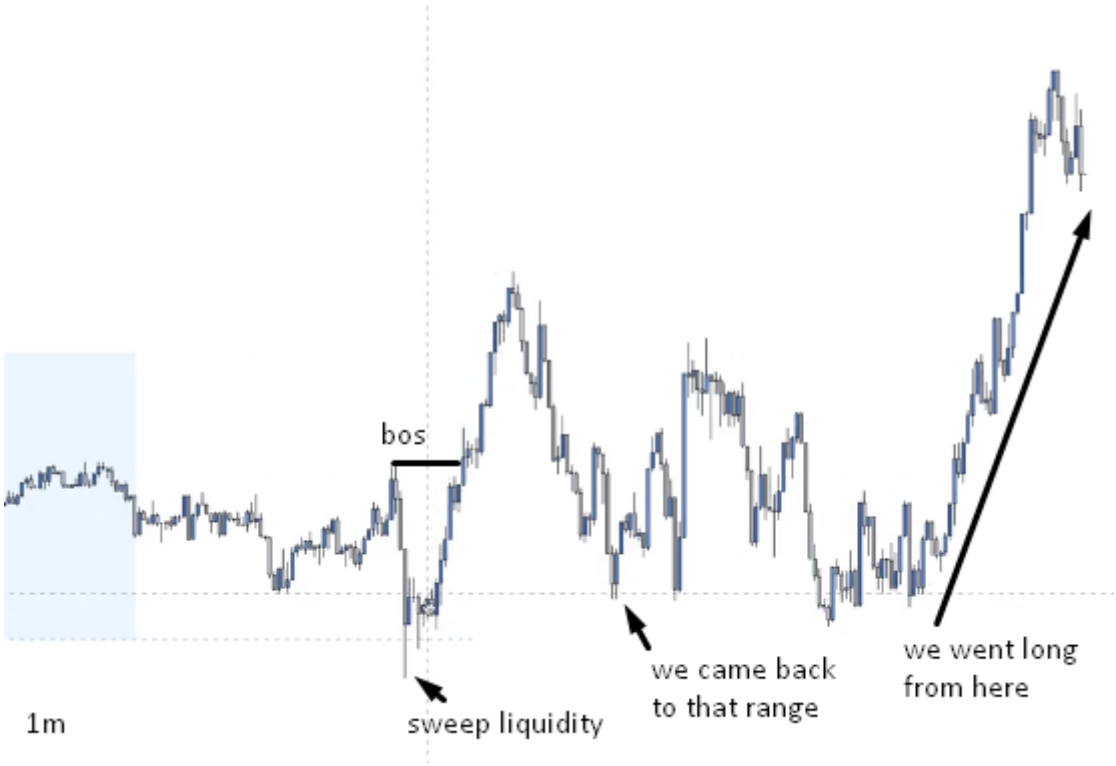

So we went a bit messy, but then we got into asia. Now back to 15m, this zone here is showing asia session. So what I have got is set on is from midnight to around 6am which is uk time.

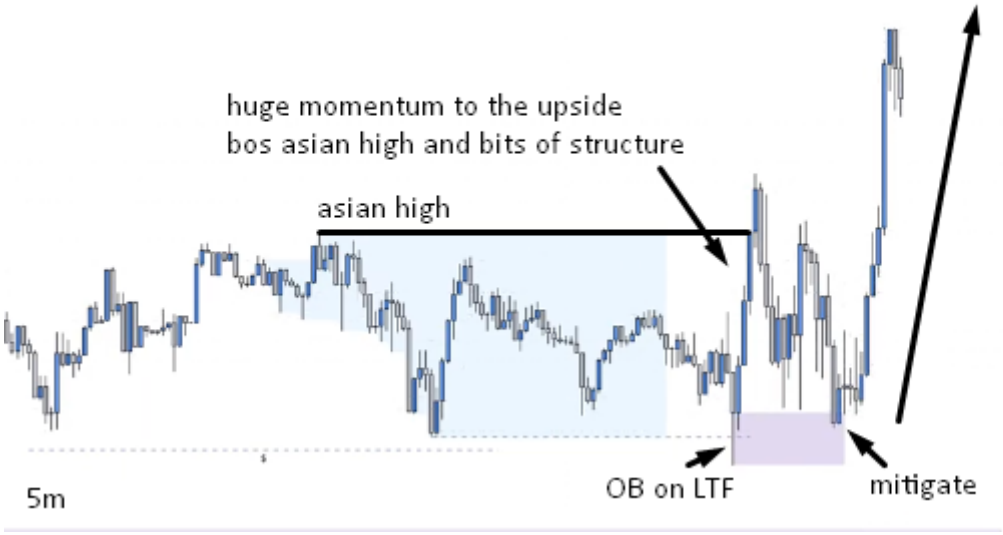

Now what we can see is we had a lot of liquidity in this area, we have a low and a second low, so we have EQL here.

Now what we usually see with the asian session is it gets manipulated and seeks liquidity before usually reversing in the opposite direction, so what we can see here is we have the low of the asian session here on that wick, we can see after 6am came down stayed within this range for 1h and then we had this candle that came down below.

So this is so clear like it happens everyday pretty much, we came down took liquidity from the low and then reversed up.

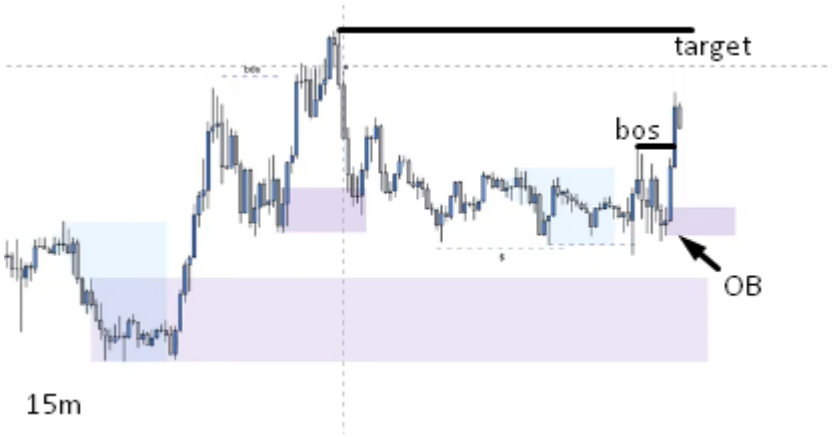

And if I go to 1m, we can see that liquidity sweep there and then what happened next? Well we bos to the upside, we came back in to that range or where that move started that caused the bos, and then we went long from here.

Now on 5m a bit clear, after that sequence of liquidity from that wick, we then showed a huge momentum to the upside, bos several bits of structure and bos the asia high as well.

We came back in to mitigate and obviously we have this wick which is the OB, we come in and then this is where momentum kicks in because liquidity has been swept from the low, people who are in long have been swept out, a sweep of liquidity from the highs, a pullback which we know to be a mitigation of that wick and then this is when we know the markets can actually commit.

And I wouldn´t be surprised if we go long from here, and start attacking some of this highs or even here, but what we may see is now we bos on the 15m, we may get a tap back into this area here, and if that is the case then I will be for longs from this area as we have bos, and I will be targeting highs up here.

> Always expect manipulation and liquidity before getting involved, because it happens every single day, and there is a reason why its happening, so just keep that in mind.